

APPLICATION FOR CRAFT IDENTIFICATION NUMBER

As from 16 June 1998 all Recreational Craft sold or put into service for the first time in the European Union have been required to comply with the EU Recreational Craft Directive. Part of this Directive's Requirements is that boats should display a Craft Identification Number (CIN). The RYA is the UK agency authorised to issue Craft Identification Numbers (CIN) for one-off home built boats.

If a boat is offered for sale in A CONDITION THAT COULD BE USED then it is a professionally built boat and the RCD compliance is the responsibility of the builder who should use his own CIN number. This applies to "sail away" boats. In such cases an RYA CIN should not be used.

If your boat is a genuinely home built boat e.g. you finished the boat from shell upwards, and you wish a CIN to be allocated then please complete the form below and return this to the RYA.

Displaying a CIN does not mean that your craft complies with the Recreational Craft Directive, only that it satisfies one aspect of the Directive.

PLEASE COMPLETE IN BLOCKED CAPITALS AND RETURN TO THE RYA TECHNICAL DEPARTMENT
